To The Class of 1978:

It is traditional that principals in addressing seniors in a yearbook such as this tend to get rather philosophical about the future that awaits graduating seniors. Principals wax eloquent as they offer congratulations and words of wisdom and guidance. At times they appear trite. In spite of all of this, I truly feel that most principals are sincere in their efforts to convey to young people the need for courage and fortitude as they leave high school life. I certainly am sincere and candid when I speak of your life ahead. But perhaps the wisdom expressed by some of the world's great minds would be more meaningful:

“Life is short, but it is long enough to ruin any man who wants to be ruined.”

Josh Billings

“Life is the art of drawing sufficient conclusions from insufficient premises.”

Samuel Butler

“The great secret of life is digestion.”

Sydney Smith

“Millions who long for immortality do not know what to do with themselves on a rainy Sunday afternoon.”

Susan Ertz

“The poorest way to face life is with a sneer.”

Theodore Roosevelt

“It is not likely that any complete life has ever been lived which was not a failure in the secret judgment of the person who lived it.”

Mark Twain

The quotes cited above were excerpted from a news broadcast presented in 1950. The thoughts they provide are still valid today, and I offer them to the Class of 1978 as they leave the Marple Newtown Senior High School. In addition, I wish each and every one of you the very best as each of you commence another phase in your life.

Dr. William C. Capriotti

at night on the high seas

At night, when the sea cradles me
And the pale star gleam
Lies down on its broad waves.
Then I free myself wholly
From all activity and all the love

And stand silent and breathe purely,
Alone, alone cradled by the sea
That lies there, cold and silent, with a thousand lights.

Once I rose above the noise and confusion
Just to get a glimpse beyond the illusion
I was soaring ever higher, but I flew too high Though my eyes could see I still was a blind man Though my mind could think I still was a mad man I hear the voices when I'm dreamin', I can hear them say Carry on my wayward son, For there'll be peace when you are done
Lay your weary head to rest
Now don't you cry no more

The Frozen Way

The water drips
And rises in pools
Winter can make
Strong men fools

Feelings frozen
Like the heart
Awaits the thawing
To break the dark

And when the ice
Turns to steam
Wandering thoughts
Turn to dreams

In the Summer
The Winter is far away
Can you remember
The frozen way?

Like a butterfly
I flew; to where
Like a beautiful tree
I grew.
To where?
To the arms
Of the Queen of Spring.

by Barry Cutler

Through Lifetimes Not a Thing

Blending orange, beige, with blue,
Background melody,
Harmonies hue.
They think we write
of Spring and flowers,
April showers-
Unknown powers.
How little (do they know?)
Has come of Spring.
How much has passed
Through lifetimes
Not a thing.

by Claire Marrone

Cry for Life

The aging fingertips of the suns gentle hand
Pierce the lonely horizon.
But yet, there is a bright darkness
Beyond the glistening dew.
It yearns to be set free from the chains of despair
A bask in the goodness of pleasure.
Cast beneath a polished stone
A mere shadow for its soul
A tiny sprout cries for life
But the dawn does not hear
For its ears are full.

The Kraken

Below the thunders of the upper deep,
Far, far beneath in abysmal sea.
His ancient, dreamless, uninvaded sleep
The Kraken sleepeth; faintest sunlights flee
About his shadowy sides; above him swell
Huge sponges of millennial growth and height;
And far away into the sickly light,
From many a wonderous grot and secret cell
Unnumber'd and enormous polypi Winnow with giant arms the slumbering green.
There hath he lain for ages will lie
Battening upon huge seaworms in his sleep
Untill the latter fire shall heat the deep;
Then once by man and angles to be seen,
In roaring he shall rise and on the surface die.

Falling Out of Sight

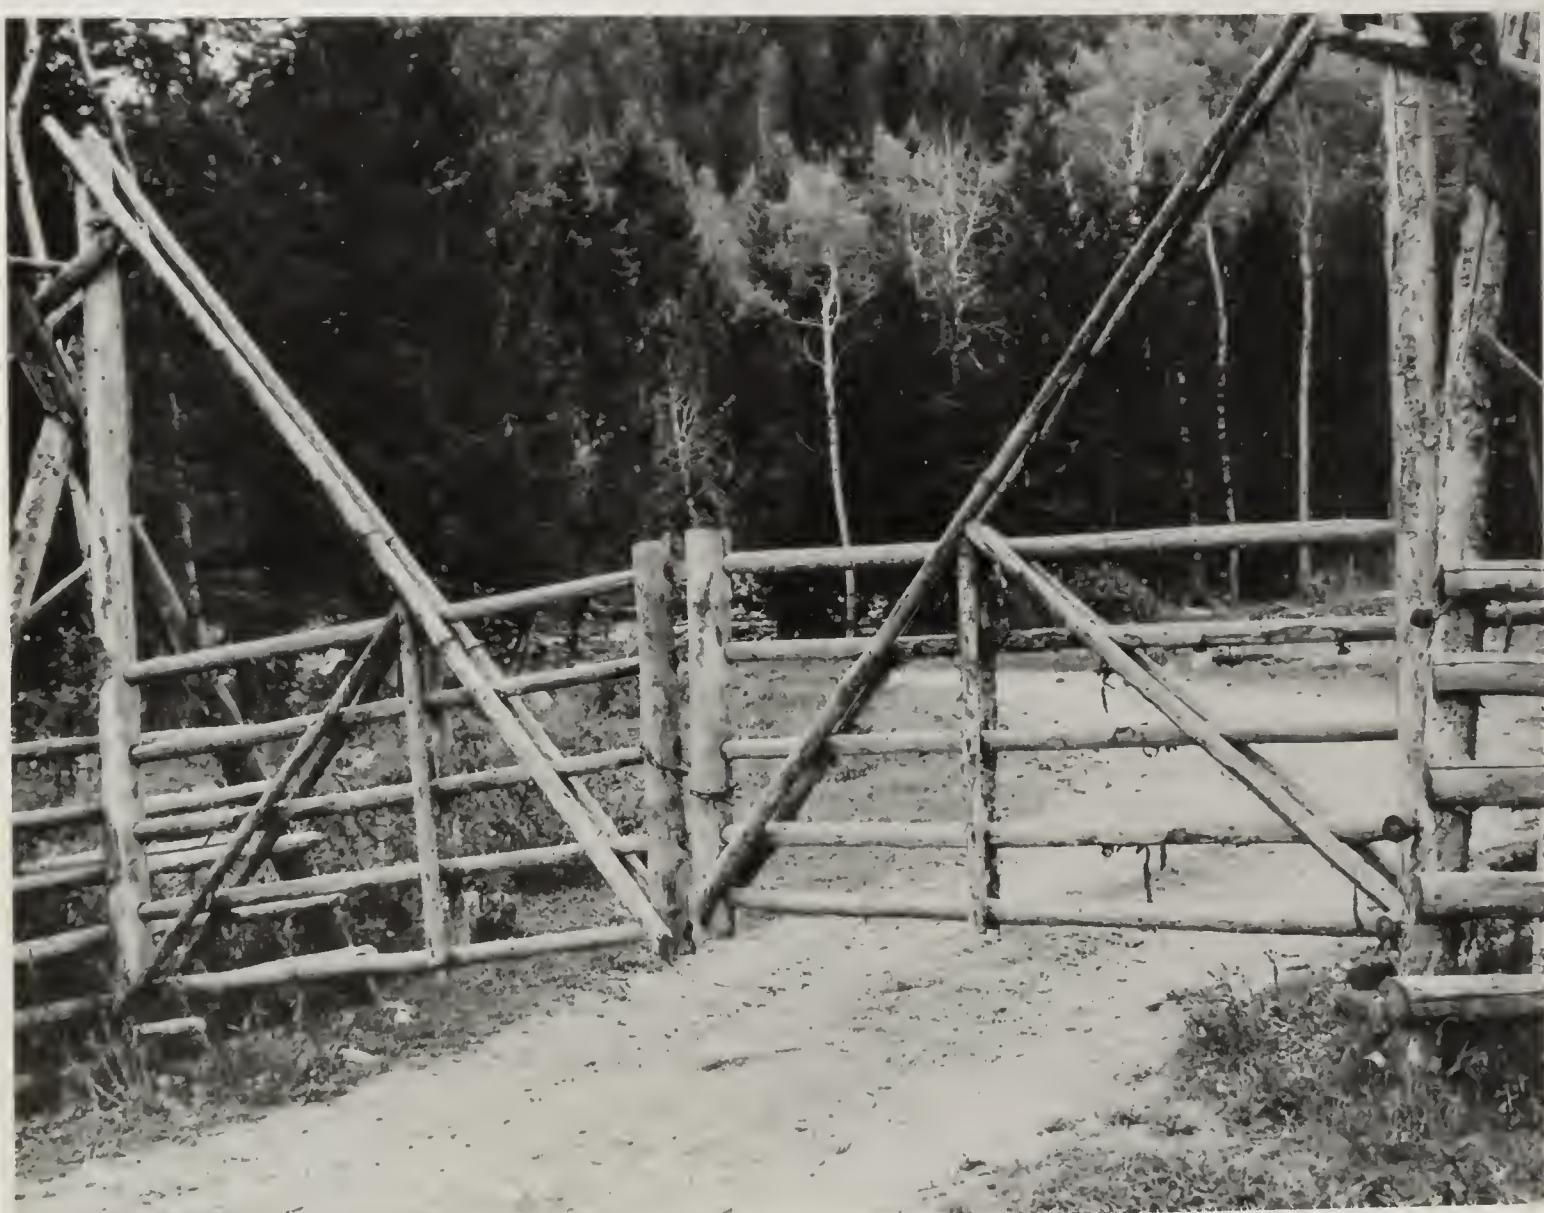

A New Gate
To a Dark Forest
Or the Beginning
Of a Walk in the Light

Just Beyond the Reach of Time
I am Falling
Out of Mind

Lost in the Wood
Wandering Like a Beggar
Face into the Storm
Looking for the Gateway Out
Or the Face to Keep Me Warm

But, All I see is a Gate
To Life
To Darkness or The Light
And Just Beyond
The Reach of Time
I Am Falling
Out of Sight.

trapped in nets made by the stream silken light threads weave the water echoed rainbows smear their colors as silent wishes greet the wind falling sky touches rising water the meeting mirrors catch their reflections revealing glimpses of an ending the captured sunlight fills the water trapped in nets made by the stream.

For life, too, is only an instant
Only the dissolving of ourselves
In the selves of others
As if bestowing a gift—

The Snow Goes On

We gaze out the window, towards the darkness and the snow.
The faces that we think we see,
Come quickly then they go.

Some have done the same this year,
The sadness is truly felt.
They never gave that young, fresh snow, time enough to melt.

We'll be here to watch it though,
and see its water run.
Some just wish it wouldn't go, and be unhampered by the sun.

As the last of the snow goes on,
Bad feelings can still be felt.
But a memory is unlike the snow,
Because, a memory will never melt.

S. Lehman

Friends are for sharing special occasions, living, loving, learning together.
Friends are for telling problems to.
Many of which make no sense.
Friends are special people who share.
So thanks friend for being there.
